Androgyne Lounge Table

BY DANIELLE SIGGERUD

MENU's Androgyne Collection began with a versatile side table created for MENU's former showroom café. Designed by the Copenhagen-based architect and designer Danielle Siggerud, it now encompasses a range of tables that profile simple silhouettes and refined materials – and, as its name suggests, the meeting of masculine and feminine elements.

The Androgyne Lounge Table celebrates MENU's approach to natural materials and the age-old tradition of furniture craftsmanship – and is now updated with a natural or dark stained oak or walnut tabletop and base, adding warmth to the modernist design. The option to pair a wooden base with a kunis breccia stone tabletop creates an intriguing pairing and makes it a thoroughly versatile design that doubles as bench for piles of books or statement decorations.

A Sense of Community

MENU has always been fascinated by the way in which individuals and spaces can be united through great design. In our pursuit to craft furniture, lighting and interior accessories shaped by purposeful details, high-quality materials and human needs, we create strong and lasting relations between designers, manufacturers and customers. The sense of community that results from this union of like-minded individuals fosters a deeper sense of belonging – and products that stand the test of time, inviting human connection, inspiration and experimentation to push the boundaries of modern design. We truly believe that when we work collectively, we achieve more than we do individually: the sum of our work and of our connections is always greater than its parts, and our softly minimal designs and collaborative spirit help to join the dots between the home, the workplace and the service industry, redefining how we use space and, ultimately, how we connect to those around us.
